Kikao64 co-working space in Eldoret Town

Kikao64 has opened a new co-working space, an ‘inspirational hub’, in Eldoret town.

The company says this launch is in response to the town’s new high-tech community of entrepreneurs, startups, nonprofits, freelancers and creatives looking for flexible modern office spaces in their home town.

Kikao64 will offer members either daily, weekly, or monthly passes through an online booking system. Members will have access to regular networking sessions, training workshops and special events ranging from guest speakers to art exhibitions to film screenings.

The new Kikao64 co-working space in Eldoret town is equipped with 100 fully serviced and spacious workstations, 3 private offices and 2 meeting rooms with whiteboards and TV screens.

Kikao64 is supported by a dedicated on-site team of customer service professionals. In addition free internet, Kikao64 also offers auxiliary services such as printing and other key consulting services on company registration, legal, tax and audit matters and web design and social marketing.

The company says its mission is to cultivate opportunities each new day for its community of individuals, businesses, startups and nonprofits to work, connect and thrive.
